THE CADETS AND THE CIVIL SERVICE.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE DAILY PRESS," Sir.—I have read with much satisfaction the leading article which appeared in your paper of this morning, and I endorse every word of it. There is one point you omitted to touch on, namely, that the cadets who are placed in responsible positions (with good salaries paid by the rate-payers), for which they have not the slightest training or qualification, are passed over the heads of men who have a long and creditable record of public service and are well qualified and fitted for the duties of almost any public post of trust.

Mr. A. Seth, a gentleman who has resided in the Colony for upwards of 23 years and has served the Government in a number of departments with great credit, and who would have filled the position of Acting Magistrate with satisfaction, if the public was passed over to make room for the cadets. A gentleman who has proved himself incompetent to perform the duties of the post.

The only reason I can assign for this is that Mr. Seth, who is familiar with the Ordinances and who is a volume of useful information, cannot be spared from the Colonial Secretary's Office, and thus his own merit stands in the light of his advancement. This, coupled with the fact that the cadets are not used until they have had some special training, and the fact that they are ultimately called upon to fill the posts of yielding to the public, and that Mr. Gladstone said the provisions relating to Cutions and Excuses and exclusion of Irish members from Imperial Parliament were not vital. The House of Commons read the bill a first time without a division.

LONDON, 14th April.—Replies to a question, Mr. Gladstone said that the Easter recess will commence on the 19th instant.
